THE NEW ALLIANCE.

GERMANY, Austria and Italy Renew the Triple Treaty.

ENGLAND PLAYS SILENT PARTNER IN THE COMPACT.

A Strong Combination Against France and Russia—The Pope Rejects the Cahenay Proposition—Anxiety About the Czar—switch—French Movements in Siam—General Foreign News.

BERLIN, July 2.—An agreement was negotiated by the signatures to the Dreieck that should be attached here instead of at Vienna as formerly. Much credit for the success of the negotiations is due to Count De Launay, the French Ambassador here, whose task in behalf of Italy was a difficult one. The new alliance is based upon three terms: the new one being between Austria and Italy. It is probable that the German-Austrian treaty will remain secret. It is reported that the latter does not take the form of a regular treaty, being only established by a diplomatic interchange of views.

It is rumored that the German Government has promised to influence German financiers to assist Italy in her financial difficulties as an inducement for her to adhere to the Dreieck. The formal adherence of England is out of the question, but her tacit support is recognized as extremely valuable. In the event of war with Russia, the Central powers would be dependent upon the British Colonies and America for corn and meat, the members of the Dreieck being too small to cope with the allied fleets of France and Russia.

The Rome Observatore Romano (Papal) strongly condemns the Dreieck as calculated to disturb the public mind rather than to secure the welfare of the people. Consequently, the paper denounces the tri-partite compact as guaranteeing to Free Masonry the violent possession of Rome and making Italy the gendarme of Austria in Trieste and the gendarme of Germany in Alsace-Lorraine.

The Paris newspaper Le Matin to-day declares that the new treaty of the so-called Dreieck suppresses the three clauses of the treaty of 1873.

The first clause which compelled Italy to send three army corps to the Alpine frontier in the event of a Franco-German war was abandoned.

The second, compelling a stationing of troops on the Russian frontier in the event of a Russo-Turkish war.

The third—the clause fixing a minimum peace effective of Italy and Austria.

France and Austria, however, according to the Matin, mutually guarantee the integrity of their respective territories.

DOLGOROUKOFF DEAD.

THE OWN CONFIDENTIAL FRIEND OF THE Czar DIES IN PARIS.

PARIS, July 2.—Prince Dolgoroukoff, recently Governor of Moscow, died in this city yesterday. Prince Dolgoroukoff represented the Czar as his intimate and confidential friend and represented the Czar with great frankness, giving him full information and sharing with him what could well have required the purse of fortunes to keep him up for any length of time.

Moscow had always been known as a city where the Czar's best friends resided, and in the other large cities of the Russian Empire, and to the Jews, it has been announced. Prince Dolgoroukoff turned for financial aid, and the Jews in return for the kind treatment they received from the Czar, gave him the sum of $1,000,000. The opinions expressed were that to comply with the petition, especially as to the appointment of Bishops to the ground of race would be to create a strong political sentiment in the country, and to the Czar he denied that there was any general falling off from the church among Catholic emigrants, or that the institutions of the republic were hostile to the Catholic faith. His arguments were that the Czar's desire was to bind the people of the Empire to his court, and the Governor of Moscow, said to be boundless, and Prince Dolgoroukoff's enemies are said not to have been taking advantage of the Czar's change of heart towards the Prince, and some time later explanations were demanded of Prince Dolgoroukoff. These explanations do not seem to have satisfied the Czar, for shortly afterwards Prince Dolgoroukoff was relieved of his post as Governor of Moscow, and the Grand Duke Alexander, who had been Czar, was appointed Governor of Moscow. The latter seems to have left Russia some time later and to have died, practically in exile, in Paris, as announced to-day.

LADIES AND POLICE.

ORIGIN OF THE TROUBLE AT FOLKESTONE—LONDON TOPICS.

LONDON, July 2.—The trouble at Folkestone yesterday arose from a feud. Soldiers belonging to the regiments stationed at the Shorncliffe Camp were visiting the town and caused slight disorder in the movement which the police easily quelled. Late at night the soldiers attacked a woman who was a widow in a house in Folkestone. Her pocket-book contained all her money about $10. An envelope he had given her was torn and she afterwards found the following note:

NEWCASTLE, Pa., July 1.—Miss Emma Bruner stepped from a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie train at Newcastle Junction Monday evening very disconsolate. She had promised to marry Lewis Richardson and had started with him to Pittsburg, where they were to be married. Richardson contrived to get into the car and followed her, and when she got off the train near Folkestone, her pocket-book contained all her money about $10. In an envelope he had given her was torn and she afterwards found the following note:

USED A BALL BAT.

Brutal Assault Made on a Prisoner by Work-House Guards.

GEORGE ROBERTS IS MURDEROUSLY CLUBBED FOR ATTEMPTING ESCAPE.

He Was Beaten, Kicked and Strapped Until Horrified By-Standers Interfered—Was Not Resisting Escapre—Indignant Witnesses May Demand an Investigation.

George Roberts, a Work-house inmate, attempted to escape from the cart in which he and other inmates were being taken to the scene of his trial on charges of city street-grafting about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. After a long and exciting chase to the testimony of eye-witnesses, he was subjected to clubbing, kicking and other punishment so brutal and murderous in nature that the guards inflicting it came perilously near being mobbed. They at last desisted, it is said, because of the unwillingness of the "Work-house" incident, threatened to prosecute them for murder if the man died under their brutal blows, and to appear against them in a court to testify that they had been guilty of assault. So bloody was the unmerciful punishment meted out to the recaptured "Work-house" bird that the man in the yard of whose residence the lady in green gown was found the blood stained from head to foot and the crowd gathered about her first begged and then threatened the guards to induce them to desist. The weapons used on Roberts were a baseball bat and a large broad leather strap, the latter heavy by reason of the straps. All these were wielded with terrible effect, and when at last the bleeding and mangled prisoner was hauled to his feet and made to stagger to the cart waiting several hours away he was told that he would die from his injuries before night. Yet, without receiving any medical attention or having his wounds dressed, he was sent to the workhouse to make to work at hard labor on street grading all yesterday, returning to the Work-house at night with the rest of the gang. Again he was taken this morning, and is now at work when there is a disturbance in the yard. The men who stated their belief that Roberts would die from his injuries before night, without the benefit of medical aid, are the two guards who recaptured him, and the leading witness in the trial.

The Case of Manager Huber of the Louisville Loan & Trust Co.

Few very people went up to the handsomely furnished offices of the Louisiana State Loan & Trust Co. in the Fagan Building to-day to buy those little "applications for loans" which General Agent Peter J. Huber says are not lottery tickets. People on the other hand in the same office, who had been unable to get a loan, made to work at hard labor on street grading all yesterday, returning to the Work-house at night with the rest of the gang. Again he was taken this morning, and is now at work when there is a disturbance in the yard. The men who stated their belief that Roberts would die from his injuries before night, without the benefit of medical aid, are the two guards who recaptured him, and the leading witness in the trial.

THE ESCAPE FROM THE CART.

The man who was almost without a shade of difference in their stories. It occurred in the back yard of Mrs. Straus, wife of Butcher Straus, at 30th Missouri avenue. The chase, however, extended from the corner of Jefferson and Miami streets, three blocks away, and had taken the fugitive and his pursuers down Indiana avenue and then through an open gate back to the alley running behind the building on Miami street. In this distance there had gathered a tremendous crowd of people living in the neighborhood, all of whom witnessed the final clubbing, kicking and strapping of the recaptured prisoner. Roberton, one of a "team" grading a lot of fifty men now working at the corner of Nebraska avenue and Henrietta street, under Foreman Adolph Remond and five guards. The man who had been taken to the Work-house, one of twelve of which are used for this particular gang, Roberts, who was serving a four and a half months' term from April 6, on a $1 fine from a police court, seems to have been beaten until he had no consciousness, and yesterday morning just as his cart reached the corner of Jefferson avenue and Miami street he sprang to the street and made off with the guns at his belt. He is at once being pursued and the story of his flight and recapture can be told by eye-witnesses.

THE FLIGHT AND RECAPTURE.

Mrs. John Krump of 200 Indians avenue says: "The man who got out of the cart shot from Miami street. When he reached the open gate of Mrs. Regenauer's house, No. 8615, which stands back in the yard, he darted in there and ran past the house to the rear. Shortly afterwards he came out again in the same direction and also entered Mrs. Regenauer's yard, calling to other guards who seemed to be in the alley."

Mrs. Regenauer's daughter at 200 Indians avenue said: "The man who got out of the cart shot from Miami street. When he reached the open gate of Mrs. Regenauer's house, No. 8615, which stands back in the yard, he darted in there and ran past the house to the rear. Shortly afterwards he came out again in the same direction and also entered Mrs. Regenauer's yard, calling to other guards who seemed to be in the alley."

The man who got out of the cart shot from Miami street. The guard came right after him, but found the shed-door barred. The man then sprang out of the back window, and crossing the alley ran into Butcher Straus' building and hid himself in the stable. The guard saw him."

Mrs. Krauss of 2510 Missouri avenue said: "When the guard came to our stable he was afraid to go in. He was trembling, and put his hands through the open stable window, calling out: 'Come out, or I will shoot you!'

"There was no reply, and I begged him not to shoot, as we had a horse in the stable. Another guard came up to the stable and the stable, where he found the man hiding in a horse-trough. He pulled him out, and the man seemed to be frightened badly, saying: 'Don't kill me, I won't resist!' The guard said to him: 'Get out of the stable and pick up a base ball bat in the yard and struck the man across the head. It seemed to crack the skull for the man fell to the ground when the guard struck him twice again, the guard hitting the man when he kicked him about the body. Then, with a heavy leather strap he had, he beat the man awfully, cursing him all the time. At last the man cried out to one of the bystanders: 'For God's sake, tell my people! I'm being killed! I can't get over this!'

"'Get up!' cried the guard, still beating him. The guard then hit him twice again and said: 'Don't beat the fellow any more. You'll kill him right here.' And at last the two guards got the man to his feet.

"His head and face were all bleeding and he staggered about. It was such an awful sight that I fainted and was carried into the hospital.

CARRIED TO WORK.

Mrs. Krump and Mrs. Regenauer, who were both present, confirmed the guard's story, saying that the guard's resistance never made the slightest resistance. Other witnesses told the same story and all said it was the most brutal and unnecessary attack that could be imagined. The base ball bat used in the attack, which the guard down below had been struck, it was a weapon with which a man could easily have been killed. The almost unconscious prisoner was then taken to the Work-house and carried to work. A lady who keeps a little bakery at Miami street and Jefferson avenue states that she saw Roberts being carried to work again this morning, his hair all bandaged up. He was also circumlocuted down at the Work-house Clerk J. H. Stansberry stated that Guard Chonot was the one who had beaten Roberts, but that the attack had been made by a guard and was necessary to force the man to surrender. Roberts was not badly hurt and was at work again to-day. His sentence of four and one-half months would also begin today, as a result of his attempted escape,

FOUNDED FLOATING.

The Almost Lifeless Body of a Woman Taken From the River.

The Enormous Amount of Life Which Has Gone Out of the American People—Can It Ever Be Recovered?

Have you noticed that there are more dead bodies floating on our streets to-day than ever before? Have you not noticed that certain of your friends, when you have always known to be strong and healthy, are for some reason weak and low-spirited? Is it not possible that you yourself are not as vigorous as you used to be? Who is it that the people are growing weaker, or is it due to some local cause? There can be little doubt that it is owing almost entirely to the fearful after effects of the Grippe. This terrible and mysterious complaint, which is rapidly running severely, invariably leaves the person in a weak, nervous and run-down condition, from which it requires much time to recover.

When people are in such a state, when nature is weak and broken, what could common-sense medicine do? Present what physicians may should do, via a stimulant, to stimulate her lagging facilities, build her up? How? By using a pure medicinal stimulant, and for this purpose there is nothing equal to pure water. Take a glassful of water, add a few drops of the juice of lemon, and drink it. You will be astonished to find that there is no one like Dr. Dury's Pure Malt. It stimulates the nerves, strengthens the heart, removes the nervous organization and assists no Great Cause. It is popular because it is so efficient. Just as good as beer, but not so strong. By the judicious use of this pure stimulant the effects of the grippe will be removed and health and strength put in place of weakness and debility.

I can't get over this!'

"His head and face were all bleeding and he staggered about. It was such an awful sight that I fainted and was carried into the hospital.

CARRIED TO WORK.

Mrs. Krump and Mrs. Regenauer, who were both present, confirmed the guard's story, saying that the guard's resistance never made the slightest resistance. Other witnesses told the same story and all said it was the most brutal and unnecessary attack that could be imagined. The base ball bat used in the attack, which the guard down below had been struck, it was a weapon with which a man could easily have been killed. The almost unconscious prisoner was then taken to the Work-house and carried to work. A lady who keeps a little bakery at Miami street and Jefferson avenue states that she saw Roberts being carried to work again this morning, his hair all bandaged up. He was also circumlocuted down at the Work-house Clerk J. H. Stansberry stated that Guard Chonot was the one who had beaten Roberts, but that the attack had been made by a guard and was necessary to force the man to surrender. Roberts was not badly hurt and was at work again to-day. His sentence of four and one-half months would also begin today, as a result of his attempted escape,

FOUNDED FLOATING.

The Almost Lifeless Body of a Woman Taken From the River.

The Enormous Amount of Life Which Has Gone Out of the American People—Can It Ever Be Recovered?

Have you noticed that there are more dead bodies floating on our streets to-day than ever before? Have you not noticed that certain of your friends, when you have always known to be strong and healthy, are for some reason weak and low-spirited? Is it not possible that you yourself are not as vigorous as you used to be? Who is it that the people are growing weaker, or is it due to some local cause? There can be little doubt that it is owing almost entirely to the fearful after effects of the Grippe. This terrible and mysterious complaint, which is rapidly running severely, invariably leaves the person in a weak, nervous and run-down condition, from which it requires much time to recover.

When people are in such a state, when nature is weak and broken, what could common-sense medicine do? Present what physicians may should do, via a stimulant, to stimulate her lagging facilities, build her up? How? By using a pure medicinal stimulant, and for this purpose there is nothing equal to pure water. Take a glassful of water, add a few drops of the juice of lemon, and drink it. You will be astonished to find that there is no one like Dr. Dury's Pure Malt. It stimulates the nerves, strengthens the heart, removes the nervous organization and assists no Great Cause. It is popular because it is so efficient. Just as good as beer, but not so strong. By the judicious use of this pure stimulant the effects of the grippe will be removed and health and strength put in place of weakness and debility.

SOCIETY TO CELEBRATE

EXCURSIONS AND PICNICS PLANNED FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Lawn Parties and Fireworks to Enliven
the Close of a Very Dull Week in the St.
Louis Society. St. Louisans in the Suburbs—General Society Gossip.

The Fourth of July with its picnics and lawn parties and fireworks will brighten up the close of the week that has been very dull in a social way. For that day quite a number of old picnics and excursions are planned, and small, informal lawn parties, with fireworks attachments will be the rule, rather than the exception. Everybody who can will go to the country for that day, and many of the suburban towns have arranged some very delightful entertainments for the Fourth. From Greenfield comes a special invitation to attend a lawn party which will be given by the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church of that pretty suburb, for the benefit of their church fund.

Mrs. Avery has offered the use of her lovely grounds for the occasion, and the committee in charge of the refreshments have arranged to serve a sumptuous dinner.

This will be followed by a charming al resco entertainment in the evening, which will be given at the residence of Prof. Haight, whose beautiful lawn will be the scene of the occasion by the Monks' Evening Club, a literary organization which has prepared a charming programme for the entertainment of their guests. They will have suitable literary selections, vocal and instrumental music, and athletic games to be followed by a delicious supper and a grand display of fireworks. The club membership is composed of the most charming people about Kirkwood, and this will prove no doubt a very delightful affair.

At Benton a Tally-ho party and al fresco super and fireworks are being arranged for by the young people, Forest Park being the destination.

At Glendale there is quite a little colony of St. Louisans, and Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson and Mrs. Alfred Carr will have large house parties for the day and evening, with supper under the trees and fireworks.

A large party of young people, formerly of Weston, will go to Wentzville, Mo., on Friday night to attend a picnic which will be given there on the Fourth. They have invited a number of friends to accompany them and will return on Sunday.

Mr. W. H. Woodward, Mr. Walter B. Woodward and a party of gentlemen will leave on Friday night for a fishing excursion on the Fourth and will remain until after the Fourth. They have already a large number of St.
Louisans at Lebanon Springs, and quite a little party will go up on Friday to remain until after the Fourth of July, when they will have a costume ball. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Turner sailed on Wednesday for Europe, and will remain there for a few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gray will leave this week, after a visit to the West Coast, and will return to their son, to join her husband in New York and go with him to the sea-side. Mrs. Mrs. and Mrs. F. W. Hobart and family left on Saturday afternoon for Nantucket, Mass., and Mrs. Charles Kirkwood will leave on Wednesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Sloan, at Cumberland, Md., Mrs. Nellie Park and Miss Maudie Park will sail July 9th for Europe. Mrs. and Mrs. Paul Turner and the Misses Papin of Theresa avenue left on Wednesday for sweet vacation in Europe. Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Fleming, and daughter, Mrs. John Cannon, will go next week to Minneapolis for a visit of a few weeks.

Mrs. Julia Frazee, III, who is a frequent visitor to St. Louis friends, left last week for Europe. Before going she gave a lawn party to her friends, which was very picturesque and beautiful. Each lady was invited to come down, however, and after after carrying out the idea as near as possible in both color and design of a large bunch of the flower, making a pretty finish to the toilets. Grouped upon the green award their pretty toilettes were very effective.

VISITORS.

Miss Lippincott arrived Tuesday morning from New England to visit her aunt, Mrs. Horace Force, of West Mountain street. She is en route for Bridgeport, Conn., where she will spend the summer. Mrs.
Stock of West Mountain street, whose avenue, is expecting a visit from her sister, who arrived next week. Mrs. Arthur Eaton, Mrs. E. C. Springer, Mrs. and Mrs. Charles H. Sawyer and family of Washington avenue left on Tuesday

The deficit is small, as Secretary Foster asserts, but it takes the place of a large surplus.

It is evident that Blaine can have the Iowa delegation if he wants it. No other Republican leader was in it. With him at the Cedar Rapids convention.

On Saturday THOMAS JEFFERSON will resume his place as the most popular American author. Even Republicans will enjoy reading or hearing his greatest production.

CALVIN S. BIXON warning the Democrats of the country to beware of the corrupting influences of wealth is a sight to make gods and men explode with uncontrollable laughter.

THE Pennsylvanians who insist upon the purification of politics and the adoption of a ballot-reform law will get both when they place only pure men favorable to ballot reform in office.

THERE is an abundance of food in the world, but Germany's tariff wall keeps it from her starving poor in order that her landowners may live in luxury. Thus the injustice of protection receives striking and pathetic illustration.

THEIR bi-weekly payment law adopted by the State Legislature is now in effect in this State. It is not as good a payment law as the one favored by the Post-Dispatch, but if it is strictly enforced the condition of many wage-earners may be greatly improved.

THE "intruders" in the Chickasaw country, concerning whom such a row was raised, have沉没 down to nine persons, and the Government officials have discovered that there is one art of civilization in which the Indians are proficient; namely, that of lying.

A CHINCHINIAN named O'DONNELL has been arrested for keeping five roosters which disturbed his neighbors by crowing incessantly. O'DONNELL's name indicates that he is a Democrat and although it is a little early to secure a stock of roosters for crowing purposes it is just as well to have plenty of well-trained crows on hand.

THE most encouraging feature of the situation for the English Liberal party is the statement of HENRY GLADSTONE that his father's physical condition is rapidly improving. The older Gladstone is a rugged piece of splendid manhood, and the prospects excellent that he will live to lead the Liberal hosts to victory.

EVIDENCE is accumulating that the United States Government cannot afford to be too friendly with BALMACHA. The Chilian insurgents make out a strong case of outrageous despotism and cruel oppression against the President. Dictators who detest constitutional safeguards and trample upon the rights of the people are not entitled to the countenance and sympathy of this republic.

SHERIFF WARFIELD of Arkansas City is a defaulter to the amount of about $25,000. Unfortunately for the Republican organs, however, his shortage cannot be held up as another instance of Democratic baseness, as he deserted the Democratic party before his election. On the other hand, the example of ex-Treasurer WOODRUFF renders it difficult for the Democratic organs to assert that their party was too good for him. The Sheriff's case is a puzzling one from a political standpoint, and will probably have to stand as a sample of the reality to be found in all parties.

THE IOWA CONVENTION.

With eyes bunged up, with battered visage, with shattered teeth and dilapidated nose, the Republican party of Iowa can hardly feel that it is "assuming the aggressive" when it crawls up to the scratch this year and feebly shakes its fist at the Democrats from the same old McKinleyite and Prohibition platform on which it was so easily "done up" last fall.

The hospitalist who cultivated 6,000 acres of land is nominated for Governor as "a farmer," is too evidently one of those "well heeled" spare men whom parties are wont to press into their service to lead "forlorn hopes." Discord is manifest in the attempt to blend a squeak for the McKinley tariff with deep bass applause for BLAINE's reciprocity antidote. The plants in favor of the Australian ballot reform, after last winter's record of broken promises in regard to it, is plainly inserted to soften an anticipated fall, and the ultra prohibition plank pushed so conspicuously in the front plainly denotes a purpose to lay the burden of the expected defeat on prohibition alone, and to teach the Prohibitionists that their best policy hereafter will be to trust the Republican party for prohibition without any of it in the plowshare.

All indications are deceptive if the Iowa Republicans managers are not simply trying to extract from unavoidable defeat this year the means of unloading and strengthening their organization in the presidential contest next year.

THE WOMAN'S NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE is after the Senators and high officials of the government who are accused of placing servants and relatives in office during the summer vacation and of doing an office brokerage business. It is threatened that if these corrupt practices are not stopped the names of the offenders will be published. The League has found a useful field of activity in attempting to check corruption in Washington. But why if these offenses have been committed merely threaten to publish the names? Justice to the innocent, the reproof of the guilty and the prevention of corruption demand it.

IT is not improbable that the Welsh tin-platers manufacturers are merely making an excuse of the McKinley tariff to curtail their output. It gives them an opportunity to dispose of their surplus stock and frighten the workmen into accepting lower wages. It is absurd to suppose that they fear the competition of American manufacturers, for some years to come, at least. In all likelihood they are merely taking advantage of circumstances, after the manner of capitalists, to enlarge their profits in future.

THE report that American agents are in Wales engaging workmen for American tin-plate factories should give Americans a inkling of the value of the promise of the benefits to accrue to them from the increased tin-plate tariff. Not only will the dinner pail cost more, but there will be more pain to fill from the wages of this country. And this, too, in spite of a law against employing laborers under contract, a law designed especially for the protection of home workmen.

MRS. LIMAHE, the political spanker of Kansas, charges that the Republicans of that State conspired to murder Col. SAM WOOD and have three times attempted to poison her. It is a well-known fact that Kansas Republicans have freely used knives and poison in a political sense, but the country is hardly prepared for such a frightful indictment of them even from Mrs. LEAHAN. This lady seems to be suffering from a severe case of political night-mare.

WHEREVER the water comes from the Gulf of California, the Salt Lake of Utah or the Colorado River, the recent reports of high waters and severe earthquakes on our Pacific Coast will probably account for the immediately following reports of a large lake rising in the Colorado Desert, below the level of the Colorado River and below sea level.

THE SEA ENLARGING.

When the correspondent left Salton, yesterday, the water was already under water.

PROF. REDWAY is very strong of the opinion that the water flows down the wash on west side of the Colorado Desert through some gigantic opening in the coast range of mountains that was created by the earthquake of Sunday night. Further proof of this may be found in the fact that the water is now encroaching on the salt plains, has a seeming tidal motion from the southwest, the waves lapping fiercely against the southern side of the Rockies in the Colorado Desert. Additional proof of the oceanic origin of this flow is found in the inland sea of a small smelt of a species only found in the waters of the Pacific. Strangely enough, no one at San Fran or Los Angeles in the inland region could recognize the food with the earthquake of last Friday.

THE conclusion is inevitable, based upon the experience in the mountains already related, that the water now steadily covering the salt plains from the Gulf of California through some gigantic opening in the coast range of mountains that was created by the earthquake of Sunday night. Further proof of this may be found in the fact that the water is now encroaching on the salt plains, has a seeming tidal motion from the southwest, the waves lapping fiercely against the southern side of the Rockies in the Colorado Desert. Additional proof of the oceanic origin of this flow is found in the inland sea of a small smelt of a species only found in the waters of the Pacific. Strangely enough, no one at San Fran or Los Angeles in the inland region could recognize the food with the earthquake of last Friday.

THE sea is enlarging.

City Institutions Which Are Not Receiving Proper Supervision.

COUNCIL DEADLOCK RESPONSIBLE FOR A BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

ctors Who Were Not Reappointed and Whose Successors Have Not Been Selected Giving Considerable Time to Their Private Practice—Must Put Up Fire Escapes—City Hall News.

While the lawmakers and the Mayor are at each other over the appointments of city institutions are suffering for want of proper care and attention, and both the doctors in office and those who hope to be are more or less hurt by the delay. While the Mayor and the Council have their horns locked over the Fire Chief and the Water Commissioner the other appointments are being made by the Board of Health which is set up in competition with other. The same Asylum has no superintendent and the officer in charge has really no legal right to take the place and perform the duties of the superintendent. The institution is a big one, and there are examinations to be signed, pay-rolls to be endorsed, employees to be hired and discharged, and a director to be chosen, all of which is evidently the duty of the Superintendent. These things are all being done by the assistant, who is not under bond. The examinations however, and the pay-rolls accepted simply by consent of the city officials, who do want to make matters worse by raising a question of authority.

The City Hospital Dr. Dalton is simply doing as little as the law requires. He knows he is in the wrong, but is loath to do what is necessary to get his private practice into shape. At the time of his being out of office, he has opened a private office on Easton Avenue, near Grand Avenue, and makes a visit to each day. Dr. Dalton says that he cannot afford to stop building up his practice while the fight is being made for which he is so very responsible. At the Female Hospital Dr. Dorsett is doing much as is Dr. Dalton, but he, too, is in the wrong and is anxious to get his private practice into shape. In the meantime he has been giving his services gratis. In fact, all of the heads of these institutions take the view that they are being used as makeshifts until such time as the new and the Mayor can fix things straight. Some of them, however, of these officers know that they have to go and are resentful of further interests of other people. On the other hand, the doctors whose names have been sent in to the Council by the Mayor are losing their practice, because a great many people think that their appointments are confirmed and do not go to any more.

The indications are, too, that this state of affairs will continue, and that there is no immediate prospect of a settlement of the fight for Fire Chief and Water Commissioner and until this is settled the other appointments will not be confirmed.

All After Pensions.

Mark Morris Jacobs of the Health Department to-day deposited with the City Treasurer $80 as the collections for duplicate certificates issued by him during the month of June. This money represents ninety-five certificates, as there is an ordinance that the cost of each certificate is $1. Mr. Jacobs in speaking of the duplicate certificates said: "I have within the last couple of days turned in about

MISSOURI PIONEER DEAD.

Thomas Tobin in a Melancholy Fit Kills Himself at Pacific.

Thomas Tobin, the pioneer settler of Pacific, Mo., is dead. He cut his throat Tuesday, and died last night. He had lived in the place forty years and for twenty-nine he had been engaged in the monotonous occupation of pumping water for the railroad engines from the Meramec River into the Missouri River at Pacific. He lived with his wife in a pretty little frame cottage in the center of a garden, in which he grew many flowers. Late in the summer no flowers. Late in the summer he had been in the habit of sitting on his front porch for hours, staring at the horizon and repeating over and over again the plan of suicide deliberately, and went at it like a man who was in earnest. He went to his room, took off his coat, and touched it with the keen edge. The blood spurted, and when his wife found him she ran to him, a red-faced woman. The wound was so small that it was easily stanchured, but he had lost too much blood to be saved, and died last night. His wife, son, and six of his children are living, five of them in Missouri.

A story is told of Tobin that concern Jay Gould. Two years ago Gould was traveling on the "Frisco, and lost his hat in some way. When he got to Pacific he asked Tobin if he could get it back. If he could not get Mr. Gould's hat, "I can," said Tobin. There was no store in Pacific, so he pawned it in his house and got a hat of his own, a high, white felt one. Gould tried it on, found it fitted, and offered Tobin $2 for it, insisting that it was his. Tobin said where the money was saying it was the hat he was married in, and he wanted Mr. Gould to send it back. Gould probably forgot it, and after a week sent a telegram asking for the hat. Mr. Gould replied with an apology, and paid the pumper a check for $10, saying that he was economical and his heirs will divide several thousand dollars.

Last Night's Excursion of the "Sunday Post-Dispatch's" Want Advertisers.

Some 1,600 of the SUNDAY Post-Advertiser's want advertisers made an excursion on the steamer Grand Republic last night as the guests of this paper. The boat left the wharf at the foot of Olive street at ten minutes to 8 o'clock and steamed down the river as far as Montesano, about thirty miles, and then returned, reaching the landing again about 10:30. The trip was very pleasant in the cabin by the Crescent Quartette, composed of Messrs. Marc Sarazan and Edward D. Meldner, violinists and pianists, Mrs. Meldner, R. H. Springer, and William A. Hill, guitarists. The music was especially the songs of Mrs. Meldner and Burke. Some of Mr. Springer's solos on the guitar also brought down the house.

Several ladies and gentlemen from the West End contributed a number of songs to the entertainment, and it was a great success to hear them. The excursion proved a big success in every particular.

Religious Meetings Held to Frighten Spirits Away From Miss Nelson.

LAKE CRYSTAL, Minn., July 2.—On Tuesday night the Norwegian Lutheran pastor held a meeting at the home of Miss Nelson, who is said to be surrounded by wonderful spiritual manifestations, hoping by this means to drive the ghostly and mysterious sounds away. The pastor and a number of people present, and all that could get in the house, came away satisfied that these sounds were heard and that the stories were not all fiction. The family gathered around the piano and heard and saw for themselves and find out the cause of the disturbance if possible. People are flocking there from fifteen to twenty miles around.

86 to Louisville and Return.

The Louisville and New Haven Railway will sell round trip tickets to Louisville and between all stations within a distance of 20 miles, at one fare for round trip, July 4 and 5, good for return until July 6 inclusive. Special train will leave St. Louis for Carlyle, July 4, at 9 a. m., and arrive at St. Louis on return at 1:30 p. m. Ticket offices, 10 North Broadway and Union Depot.

Mad Dog Scare.

A mad dog scare aroused the usually quiet precincts of King's highway and New Manchester road for several hours yesterday afternoon. A dog was seen running along King's highway, barking and snapping at everything that came in his way. He and two other dogs had then quieted down. A couple of keepers had come on the scene and it was decided to kill the three dogs. Charles Schaefer, a saloonkeeper, performed the ceremony and relieved the minds of the residents in the neighborhood.

Friends in eight rooms or more were in bounds of Westland Cabanne, Pine and Morgan; no young children in our family. Address E. 77, this office.

The Bucket Fell on Him.

Fred Kiat, a laborer, was digging a well on Shaw avenue and Cooper street yesterday afternoon when a bucket filled with dirt fell from the top of the well, a distance of about 15 feet, and hit him on the head. He was knocked insensible. His fellow workers lifted him out and carried him to his home, where he lay unconscious on the street. His injuries are not considered fatal.

He lived with his wife in a pretty little frame cottage in the center of a garden, in which he grew many flowers. Late in the summer no flowers. Late in the summer he had been in the habit of sitting on his front porch for hours, staring at the horizon and repeating over and over again the plan of suicide deliberately, and went at it like a man who was in earnest. He went to his room, took off his coat, and touched it with the keen edge. The blood spurted, and when his wife found him she ran to him, a red-faced woman. The wound was so small that it was easily stanchured, but he had lost too much blood to be saved, and died last night. His wife, son, and six of his children are living, five of them in Missouri.

A story is told of Tobin that concern Jay Gould. Two years ago Gould was traveling on the "Frisco, and lost his hat in some way. When he got to Pacific he asked Tobin if he could get it back. If he could not get Mr. Gould's hat, "I can," said Tobin. There was no store in Pacific, so he pawned it in his house and got a hat of his own, a high, white felt one. Gould tried it on, found it fitted, and offered Tobin $2 for it, insisting that it was his. Tobin said where the money was saying it was the hat he was married in, and he wanted Mr. Gould to send it back. Gould probably forgot it, and after a week sent a telegram asking for the hat. Mr. Gould replied with an apology, and paid the pumper a check for $10, saying that he was economical and his heirs will divide several thousand dollars.

MISSOURI PIONEER DEAD.

Thomas Tobin in a Melancholy Fit Kills Himself at Pacific.

Thomas Tobin, the pioneer settler of Pacific, Mo., is dead. He cut his throat Tuesday, and died last night. He had lived in the place forty years and for twenty-nine he had been engaged in the monotonous occupation of pumping water for the railroad engines from the Meramec River into the Missouri River at Pacific. He lived with his wife in a pretty little frame cottage in the center of a garden, in which he grew many flowers. Late in the summer no flowers. Late in the summer he had been in the habit of sitting on his front porch for hours, staring at the horizon and repeating over and over again the plan of suicide deliberately, and went at it like a man who was in earnest.
